

Dmytro Koval

Research interests - international humanitarian law, international criminal law, sociology of international law, transitional justice.

In 2010 graduated from National University “Odessa Law Academy”. In 2014 defended a PhD thesis on “International Law Protection of Cultural Property in the Event of Armed Conflict”. Teaching career started in 2010 at International Humanitarian University (Odessa). From 2011 occupies the position at National University “Odessa Law Academy” on the department of international law and international relations. Lectured for the Kyrgyz State University. Conducted research “Restitution of Cultural Property: International Law Regulation and National Experience” at Jagiellonian University (Krakow). From 2013 works on the problem of international criminal courts influence on post-conflict societies in the Graduate School for Social Research, Polish Academy of Science (Warsaw).